Harrison Bader's grand slam powers the Giants over the White Sox 10-3

Harrison Bader hit his third career grand slam in the San Francisco Giants' 10-3 win over the Chicago White Sox. This is Bader's second grand slam in just six days.

The Giants opened the scoring in the bottom of the fourth. Luis Arraez started the rally with a leadoff triple, scoring on a sacrifice fly from Casey Schmitt. After back to back singles from Rafeal Devers and Matt Chapman, Daniel Susac drove them both in with a single of his own.

Following a solid first four innings from Giants starter Adrian Houser, a lead off double from Jarred Kelenic, followed by back to back singles by Tristain Peters and Drew Romo put the White Sox on the board with runners on first and third. A fielder's choice from Sam Antonacci scored Peters, bringing up Miguel Vargas who ripped an RBI double to center field to even the scoring 3-3.

The Giants responded swiftly with a six-run bottom half of the fifth inning. Schmitt hit a two-run homer, driving in Arraez who reached base on a single. Five batters later, after a Chapman double and back-to-back walks, Bader launched his 425-foot grand slam to center field, extending their lead 9-3.

Things stayed quiet until the eight inning when Willy Adames hit a solo shot for the Giants' third home run of the night.

Eric Fedde picked up his fifth loss of the year, allowing eight runs on 10 hits in 3 ⅓ innings.

Houser allowed three runs and seven hits in 4 ⅔ innings of work.

Matt Gage, the second of four pitchers for San Francisco, got the win. He struck out all four of his outs, allowing only one hit.

San Francisco will look to steal the series against Chicago as Robbie Ray takes the mound tomorrow. They'll then take on division rivals, Arizona Diamondbacks, in a three game series before traveling to Colorado to take on the Rockies.
